HONORS SECTIONS OF
REGULARLY OFFERED COURSES
FALL 2015

Acct 2136H Honors Accounting I
First part of two-part course focusing on the nature and use of managerial and financial accounting information for decision making in various business settings. Emphasizes use of accounting information by internal and external users. Prerequisite: sophomore standing in Accounting or Business, 3.3 or higher GPA.
Acct 2136H (elementary accounting for honors students) is being offered for the fall semester from 2 to 3:15 pm on TR. It differs from Acct 2036 in that there are no labs, but there are two outside of class projects. The course requires a permission number to enroll (and a minimum 3.3 cumulative GPA). Business majors have first priority to enroll in the course but frequently there is room for a few non-business majors. There is quite a bit of demand for Acct 2136H so all students requesting a permission number for the course must first put their name on a waiting list.
Students who wish to enroll need to contact/see Karen Brammer in the School of Accountancy office (303 Cornell) ASAP to put their name on the list. Permission numbers will be sent to students as soon as the School has enough information about the demand for the course.

Eng 2015H  Theory and Practice of Tutoring
“Theory and Practice of Tutoring Writing,” is an English/Honors College Writing Intensive (WI) class which addresses both the theory and practice of tutoring and the foundations of good writing. Therefore, in addition to theoretical frames for what writing tutors do, it focuses on hands-on craft and practical experience working with other writers. At its heart is a shared set of assumptions about tutoring writing. In order to help someone else competently, a tutor needs to have an expert command of the craft of writing herself. A tutor needs to know something not only about the practical application of rhetoric and composition theory, but also about the subtleties of verbal and nonverbal communication. Hands-on experience from both sides of the desk is a crucial part of the process of learning to work with other writers. Online tutoring is a valuable part of the skill set with both advantages and disadvantages over traditional face-to-face scenarios, and it makes considerable demands on the tutor’s craft as a writer and as a reader of both prose and people. This course also prepares students to work as writing tutors, and, in fact, doing well in it qualifies them for a part-time job in the Writing Center in future semesters.

Prerequisite: Engl 1000. A/F. This class meets Mondays and Wednesdays from 2:00-2:50pm. Students interested in the course should contact Dr. Rachel Harper: harperrp@missouri.edu This course fulfills a lower division Writing Intensive requirement and General Education credit (Humanities).

Phil 1000H General Introduction to Philosophy
The aim of this course is to introduce you to some of the large issues in philosophy and its history. Thus we shall look at some classic texts, e.g., by Wittgenstein, Descartes, as well as some more recent ones, e.g., by Searle. My hope is that by the end of the semester you will have read some discussions about some important issues, learned some important distinctions in those areas, and come to value the importance of making distinctions. Some have said that Philosophy is the art of making distinctions. I agree and not the two aspects, the making of distinctions and doing so artfully. An Honors section makes several things possible: getting to know one another better, having regular and fruitful dialogue [which in my mind is an essential part of Philosophy], and having several longer writing exercises.

Phil 1100H Introduction to Ethics
Introduction to different philosophical theories regarding when acts are morally right rather than wrong; when things are good rather than bad; nature of the "good life", nature of ethical reasoning and justification.

Phil 1200H Introduction to Logic

Psych 1000H General Psychology
Survey of theories, principles, and methods in the study of human behavior.

Psych 4815H Cross Cultural Psychology
This course will adopt a psychological approach to the study of the cross-cultural experience. We will spend our time investigating how culture affects and determines human behavior, thoughts, emotions, and interactions with others, on both individual and societal levels. In particular, we will focus on how various cultures shape correspondingly different behaviors and thought patterns in their respective members. The course will assume the form of a seminar with class discussions and group exercises. Its main goal is to combine current psychological theory, with semester-long cultural immersion projects in order to yield an in-depth academic and personal understanding of culture and its effects on human thought, emotion, and behavior. Written and audiovisual materials will further supplement and hopefully enhance your appreciation and understanding of the cross-cultural experience.
